

rural projects

With locations in the Central Coast and Hunter regions of NSW, ADW Johnson is strategically placed to service the majority of the states most significant rural and agricultural resources. The region offers a diversity of land uses such as rural, residential, farming and agricultural to meet the diverse demands of the resource and lifestyle property sectors. Consequently, ADW Johnson has wide ranging experience in survey services which underpin rural, residential, agricultural and natural resource applications. This includes large scale mapping applications, site assessment and constraints mapping using GIS, subdivision and titling advice as well as the preparation of statutory plans and subdivision management. ADW Johnson also retains in-house GPS services to ensure the most cost effective and efficient methods of delivering our clients requirements.
